

SGA Elections In Turmoil

JONES ELECTED EDITOR OF HOLLY LEAF

Popular Senior Given Top News Spot For 1955 - 1956

Miss Joanne Jones has been elected editor of the 1955-56 Holly Leaf by the entire present staff.

Joanne has been very active at STC and truly deserves this office. She has been one of the most conscientious members of the staff ever since she entered this college, working as a reporter,

Joanne has also been an active member of the Glee Club, the Christian Association, the Future Teachers of America, and the Sophanes Players.

Newspaper work is not at all new to Joanne as she was editor of the Snow Hill High School newspaper during her senior year there.

Having entered the corridors of Salisbury State Teachers College in the fall of 1952, Joanne soon showed her outstanding capabilities by being elected secretary of her class. Later that year, she again proved herself by winning an Achievement Key. This year, in addition to serving as associate editor of the HOLLY LEAF, she is vice-president of the Future Teachers of America Association.

Joanne is a resident of Newark, Maryland and comes from a family of two sisters and one brother.

Best of luck to you, Joanne, in your new office. We know that you will do it well.

Carolyn Bundick to Head Evergreen Staff

Miss Carolyn Bundick, a junior, has been elected editor of the college yearbook, The Evergreen, for the year 1955-56. Miss Bundick was graduated from Bloxom High School, Bloxom, Va., in 1952. Upon entering STC she was elected treasurer of her freshman class. During her sophomore year she held two offices, secretary-treasurer of the women's dorm and treasurer of the F.T.A. This year she is copy-editor of The Evergreen and has been president of the College Chorus since Mrs. Carolyn Godfrey resigned. Carolyn has shown much interest in all of the organizations here and has done a splendid job in all of her offices.

Highbaugh Foundation Offers 10 Scholarships

St. Petersburg, Fla. — Ten college students will be selected this year to study law at "One of America's Most Interesting Law Schools" under a scholarship program set up by Leroy Highbaugh, Sr., of the Highbaugh Foundation of Louisville, Ky., according to Dr. J. Ollie Edmunds, president of Stetson University.

The scholarships, valued at $1,500 each over a three-year period, will be used at Stetson's College of Law beginning this fall when Florida's oldest college of law opens its 55th year and its second on its new campus in St. Petersburg.

"Mr. Highbaugh's concern for training Christian lawyers makes this one of the most stimulating gifts Stetson University has ever received," Dr. Edmunds said. "As

Balloting Ends In Confusion After Week-Long Campaign

The annual election of the SGA not being carried out according to Hoyle.

During a call meeting of the S.G.A. the views of these were brought out by those who didn't agree with some of the election results so far. Some of the points brought out were the question of write-in ballots, the question of Barbara Bailey's re-entering the race as a candidate after she had declined the nomination publicly, and the matter of the voting for three candidates instead of the two who had died.

It was brought out that if there had been a protest earlier the write-in ballots for Sasajima could have been placed for someone else, but they are definitely illegal. The S.G.A. Board decides that Barbara Bailey could re-enter the race without a re-nomination. Also, if there has been a protest earlier about the tie vote, it might have been done otherwise.

After all the issues had been discussed, it was decided that today's ballot with the names of the two candidates having the plurality of votes, namely Grayson Wheatley and Barbara Bailey, be put to the final test. The moral of this election seems to be a lack of understanding and contorted version of vague standards and regulations, though students seem to want a clear cut set of regulations and this is precisely what they should have. All this milling around and confusion was entirely unnecessary. Remember WE, the student body, are the student government, let's keep it that way!

Tuesday evening a parade was held, which ran down town and back. Cards decorated from bumper to bumper were led through Salisbury by the police. The balloting began on Wednesday to culminate a week of activities.

Time and tide go on, but elections do not; that is, all elections but ours. The longer our election for President of the S.G.A. runs, the more some people think it is

Reverend Trader Is Assembly Speaker

Thursday, March 31, marked the date of the annual Easter assembly at Salisbury State Teachers College. This yearly event is intended to remind the student body of the approach of the sacred Paschal season.

The invocation at the service was very ably given by Henry Covington, a freshman of Centerville, Md. The principal speaker was the Reverend Mr. Trader, pastor of the Methodist Church at Vienna, Md. His message, appropriate to the Easter season, was an inspirational and uplifting experience for the listeners.

Adding greatly to the devotional atmosphere of the program were the anthems rendered by the Ladies' Ensemble of the College Chorus under the direction of Dr. Jessie Fleming. They sang: "The Lamb," "Lift Thine Eyes," and "The Holy City." The students

College Chorus to Present Concert Here

The Salisbury College Chorus will present a full-length choral concert on April 26. The concert will consist of five groups of music, opening with a full choir presentation of sacred music. A spectacular arrangement of the Beethoven Fifth Symphony and groups of folk songs, art songs, and American popular and theatre music will complete the program. Vocal soloists will be Miss Suzanne Meintzer, Mrs. Barbara Mumford, Mr. Richard Hendrickson, and Mr. Harold Anderson. Trumpet and violin solos are also planned. The Ladies Ensemble and the Double Octet will be featured in specialty numbers. Director Dr. Jessie Fleming has asked for the whole-hearted support of the student body in this project. The concert will begin at 7:45 and your presence will be appreciated.

On March 31, the College Chorus and the Ladies Ensemble sang

Rules for Election of Our Campus Leaders Have Been Revised

Right now, the big news in the SGA as well as the college, is the election of a new president. "Election" will be a familiar word by the end of April because most of the organization heads will have been chosen by that time.

In the March 1 meeting, the president announced that the card tables have arrived and will be stored in the room under the Social Room — available for use by any organization in the college. He also requested that bills owed downtown be paid as soon as possible by the organizations.

Before very long the SGA constitution will have been revised, according to the chairman of the revision committee, Janice Marshall.

The executive board of the SGA has revised the present rules and regulations for electing Campus Leaders. The revision has been accepted by the SGA.

On March 3 a request was made by the president of the Sophanes Players for money with which to buy materials for an arena style stage. After considerable discussion, the SGA allocated the organization $175 with the provision that they look into the possibility of using lumber and materials at the college before buying outside materials.

In previous articles, members of the SGA have been praised for their attendance; however, recent-

Science Classes Visit Smithsonian Institute, Museum, Wash., D.C.

On April 4 and 5, the Physical Science classes and the Junior High Science Methods Class went to Washington, our National Capitol. Dr. Weaver's laboratory sections went on Monday and Mr. Glenn's made the trip on Tuesday.

While in Washington, the groups visited parts of the Museum of Natural History and the Smithsonian Institute which had a direct bearing on the work being done in these classes.

At the Museum of Natural History, the students directed their interests toward mineral displays as well as exhibits which would help them understand the information on paleontology.

The center of attention at the Smithsonian Institute was the history of the development of machines, especially the origin of the steam and gas engines.

The primary purpose of the trip was to make certain scientific concepts more realistic. This experience also served the purpose of familiarizing students with those activities in this area which will be of use in the actual teaching of science.

ly several meetings have had to be adjourned because a quorum was not present. Let's try to bring the attendance up to the standard maintained during the first semester.

AS THE EDITOR SEES IT

The attempt to elect the President of the Student Government Body has shown us that there is something wrong with the rules governing the election of officers in SGA.

The horrible example of a normal election disintegrating into utter confusion because of the lack of proper election laws, causes us to pause and think. Perhaps we should completely revise all the regulations governing our school body.

As men and women stepping out of the sheltered side of life into the arena of day by day conflict, we should have shown enough caution and care in setting up the laws by which we were to live for four years, so that the disgraceful example of this election could not have occurred.

Those of us, who are continuing in the profession of teaching, must especially reproach ourselves in this matter. For not only must we set down the rules by which we are to live, but we must so organize our lives that we can set forth for our pupils a better way of life.

An energetic attempt must be made to correct the errors disclosed by the attempted election, and a greater effort must be made by all of us to see that all other regulations are concise and clear, so that we may not be again presented with a chaotic situation.

Soviet Student Editors To Visit U. S. Campus

New York, March 25, 1955 — The visit of 11 Soviet student editors to the United States has aroused interest on the American college campus, the Institute of International Education announced today.

Student councils, campus newspapers, faculty, and administrative officers at 44 colleges and universities in 23 states and the District of Columbia have invited the Russian delegation to visit them. The U. S. National Student Association has also expressed interest in the tour.

The geographic range of these institutions is wide. It includes New York and New England, the midwest, the deep south, and the far west.

Included in the list are a group of student organizations which banded together last fall to extend a direct invitation to the Soviet editors to visit their campuses. These colleges also urged the State Department to grant visas to the Russian editors. The Swarthmore College Student Council acted as coordinator for this collegiate group. At the same time a number of other colleges invited the editors to visit their respective campuses or endorsed the visit independently. All of these groups welcomed the March 10 decision of the State and Justice Departments to grant visas to the Soviet delegation.

To acquaint themselves with American academic life is the stated purpose of the Soviet tour. The Institute of International Education, which was asked by the State Department to administer the visit, is planning an itinerary that will show a cross-section of American higher education. It should include visits to large private and public universities, a private college under religious direction, a Negro college, and a

Spotlighting Students

One of the most "sports-minded" girls in our senior class is Bettie Smith, who has participated in almost every phase of the athletic program at STC. Beginning in the freshman year, Bettie played on intramural teams of different kinds. The following year she was a member of the field hockey team and refereed whenever there was an occasion. When a volleyball team was organized last year, Bettie was a member of that squad. She was manager of the girls' basketball team, too. In addition to managing the basketball team again this year, Bettie continues to be one of the first-string players on the volleyball team.

Sports have been one of Bettie's main interests ever since she entered Washington High School in Princess Anne, Md. eight years ago. There she was active in all the major sports, basketball, softball, and fieldball. She also served as president of the Athletic Association. In her junior and senior years she held class offices, too.

After Bettie was graduated in 1951 from Washington High School, she enrolled at STC in the teacher training curriculum. She had always liked children, and because of this she decided to make teaching her career. Since her first year, Bettie has served as secretary of her class and secretary of the Sophanes Players, in addition to her sports interests.

Bettie likes everything about the Eastern Shore (particularly Princess Anne), Jack, bridge, and student teaching. She doesn't like crackers and peanut butter, liver, cities, murder movies or favoritism. Her student teaching assignment is at Stephen Decatur High School under Mrs. Adkins.

Bettie's future plans include being married in June and teaching at Wicomico Junior High School next fall. When asked how she felt about leaving, Bettie said, "I've enjoyed my four years here and will hate to leave STC and the friends I've made here."

You'll certainly be missed! Good luck, Bettie.

Well, Spring is here at last. Ah, spring; the time of year when a fellow starts thinking about what the girls have been thinking about all year. Yes, love is in the air. It sort of makes one reminisce, doesn't it? I never will forget the first time I fell in love. What a girl she was. Elsie Schmittelheimer was her name.

Kind of a funny name, Elsie. I'll never forget the first time I saw her. I was in the Automat, finishing a brace of pheasant under glass. I looked up—there she was. She looked so happy sitting there—with a light in her eyes, a dimple in her chin, and a hamburger in her stomach. She looked as if she had just stepped out of Vogue, at the publishers request. And what a figure—she had curves like you've never seen before. Too bad they were all on one side! She had the kind of shape that grows on men. That's the trouble, it grows on men, not on women.

Then she spoke and her voice quivered with love, emotion and Seven Up. It was like the tinkle of bells—in a Spike Jones arrangement. We left the Automat and we strolled down the street. I looked at the stars and asked her if she liked astronomy. She said, "Naah. I don't go for that kosher food..." A lady—no doubt about it!

Then came our first date. We went to the opera and what a handsome couple we made. She was wearing a snood and from the back it looked like she was trolling for mackerel. From the front it looked like she caught one.

Only one thing bothered me. She kept talking about marriage and diamond rings—diamond rings and marriage. The kid had rocks in her head. One day she snuggled close and said "Have you ever thought of us walking down the aisle together?" I said, "I sure have." So we went to the movies. She wasn't hard to please. She just wanted a husband who was strong, silent, and full of grit. I said, "You don't want a husband. You want a deaf and dumb garbage collector."

One day her folks threw a party for us. It was a lovely affair. Her mother came up to me with a tray and said, "Would you like a hot cookie?" I said, "Not tonight, kid, I've got a date." Then we went over to my house and father whispered, "What kind of a girl is this? She's fat, bow-legged, pigeon-toed, toothless, and ugly." I said, "You don't have to whisper. She's deaf, too." I'm giving you the facts. She's the girl you want to take home to mother—in a cage.

Then like all good things it came to an end. One night she was on stage to sing. Just as she opened her mouth one of Fink's Trained Mules put his foot in it. I'm telling you it brought tears to my eyes, watching her gum up that song. That was her last performance. Deams Taylor would never wince again. As the curtain came down, she turned to me—her eyes burning with desire, passion, and cheap mascara. It was a sight to challenge an upset stomach.

IT SAYS HERE

BY JIMMIE WILSON

"So many things come once a year and Easter is one of them," he said wryly. He was rather short, tweedy fellow with deeply set eyes, a nose that had been buried in better books, and a chin that overdid it. He had his eyes on the dregs in his cup as if he were a tea leaf and chattered about Easter twice a year, "once in a commercial realm and once in a spiritual aspect."

I asked what he had against new hat wearing and he said, "Nothing... if they're free." Now, it was obvious he was wearing his way through college. "What are you going to do Easter Sunday?" I asked. "Go to church, if I can avoid the Easter Parade."

"And if you can't avoid the parade?"

"Oh, I'll still go to church. I'll sit up front where I can't see all the hats."

"But when you turn around, leave, you'll still see all the hats," I said stifling a sneer. "Don't talk about it."

His voice went into second gear when he asked me if I wanted another cup of coffee. My nod, money, and a pretty waitress brought us two more cups. I think new hat wearing is really symbolic.

"Symbolic of the dollar," said. "This coffee is good."

"What's wrong with the dollar?"

"Nothing... if you have it."

Then he quoted Spinoza, though I don't know why, saying about things which are as different as are rare.

"Are you talking about the dollar?"

He looked at me as if I had heads and said, "I'll bet anything I know what you'll do."

He looked a bit soothed, so I thought I'd try him. "Do you predict?"

"You'll have a good Easter vacation, full of contemplation all that; then you'll rush to see Faust. But you'll tify it by saying it gives you peace."

"That's right," I faked, why not?"

Then he looked at the waitress and said, "See her, she's so beautiful she's illegal. She should be in FAUST. That's the worst trade of all."

I removed my imaginary glasses, put them to my lips and said, "From many tones comes the finest tune."

"That is not Spinoza."

"Right," I said, "that's Heilitus."

"Why do you read that?"

"I don't, I found that on the back of a Christmas card."

"I read the backs of Christmas cards too, but all I ever see is Hallmark."

"Exactly, you're interested in seeing who is making the deal, not what they're giving for it."

"You have a point. I wish I had more time to talk together but I must catch a bus."

I said, "Let's meet in the fee shop Easter Sunday and go to church together — you."

He smiled and said, "Deal." Then he limped out.

Sport Beat

By Bradley

Baseball season is before us once again. The spring training camps are in full swing. Already the teams are starting to cut and revise their rosters for the regular season. Who will the champions for 1955 be? Who will win the Pennant in the National and American Leagues? Who will win the 1955 World Series... will it be another Subway Series between the Dodgers and the Yankees, or will the Cleveland Indians and the New York Giants visit each other in September? ... No one really knows but there are those who think with some basis for thought... I pick the Brooklyn Dodgers to win the National League Pennant and the New York Yankees to win the American League Pennant, and the 1955 World Series. I pick Baltimore to attain the top of the second Division of the American League with newlyweds Kansas City Athletics to take the lowest rung on the ladder... Ty Cobb's name has been brought up recently and time again, with high praises for his ability, agility and aggressiveness. He is, supposedly, one of the better baseball players. OK, so he is; why keep harping on it. It only builds up antagonistic attitudes toward him by the other players around today. Why not leave well enough alone? ... You might be interested in knowing how the Colts draft choices turned out — Of twenty-nine, 13 were signed, among these being Alan Ameche, All-American fullback from Wisconsin and Dick Szymanski, center from Notre Dame; George Shaw, the All-American quarterback from Oregon is undecided... Ray Krouse, of Maryland All-American fame, has signed for 1955 contract with the New York football Giants. He was the team's defensive captain, at tackle last season... Word has it that the trainers at local Ocean Downs Raceway find the facilities and climate to their liking — a recorded 230 trotters and pacers are here doing their winter training. Among the celebrities are Adios Boy, known for his world-record performances as a two and three year old. Also there is Royal Mist, the world's champion pacing mare on a half-mile oval, owned by Frank Hastings of Berlin, Maryland.

The heavyweight champion, Rocky Marciano, who is slated to meet Dan Cochell in May, is taking his training seriously — almost too seriously, according to his manager. But all eyes will be on his nose, his new nose, which gave way before and is now, after surgery, supposedly better than ever... Best of luck to Junius Kellogg who is fighting back after suffering a severed spine in an auto accident while playing for the Harlem Globetrotters. He's best known for his splitting open of the gambler's syndicate, which was throttling collegiate basketball in New York City. He was not expected to live, but is now taking two or three steps a day... That's all for now.

Men's Fancy Turns To . . . Intramurals

It's spring! And with the coming of spring every young man's thoughts turn to... baseball! Not only do his thoughts turn to baseball but to the coming intramural season.

This year as in past years, a spring athletic program has been planned that will touch the interests of many STC men.

The intramural program will not be as extensive as in past years, because of the reorganization of baseball on the varsity's spring schedule. Softball will hold the spotlight through most of the season, but other sports such as tennis, golf and track will also be included.

The track and field events will not be dwelled on thoroughly. Due to the large number of players who will be ineligible because of participating in varsity baseball, the softball league will consist of only four teams.

For men interested in golf, a trip to one of the local links for lessons by the pro has once again been formed.

Coach Benn Maggs says that he plans to inaugurate the 1955 intramural season "sometime after Easter."

Baseball Schedule to Be Posted Soon

This year, for the first time in five years, baseball will again be a part of the athletic program at STC. First, let us look at the reasons for its departure and return. When it was here before it was successful except for one thing: it cost so much that the athletic department went into debt very deeply. As a result, it was dropped from the program.

Last year a group of interested athletes came to the decision that baseball had been absent long enough. So they organized their forces and invaded Coach's "cage" and put the problem to him flatly. Together they worked out the difficulties and decided that the only way we could have baseball back was to have more money. Then they went to the SGA and requested that the Athletic Fee be raised five dollars. It was put to a vote before the student body and was passed.

Practice has now begun, the schedule has been made out, and we just have to wait for the games to start. It will be hard getting started again after the lay-off but that is the big step. It is still too early to know who the prospects are, but it looks like we have plenty of potentials.

Coach has succeeded in getting games with about five or six teams and is working to increase this number. Some of these are Towson, Kings, Wesley, and Beacon.

Tryouts for Varsity Softball to Be Held

Spring is here! The boys can have their baseball, but they certainly don't have anything on the girls. This year, we plan to have a girls' varsity softball team. Tryouts are to be held sometime in the near future.

No schedule has been set, but Carolyn Knicey, Secretary of the Women's Athletic Association, has contacted several schools, inviting them to play us. The schools contacted are: St. Mary's Seminary, Notre Dame of Baltimore, King's College, Gallaudet, and Trinity. Our able manager this year will be June Thorne.

Plans are now being made for a sports banquet at which awards will be made for the various activities. Letters and awards will be made for varsity basketball and softball, winning intramural teams, managers, and members of the W.A.A. Board. We'll give you more details on this project at a later date.

The Delapem Club of the University of Delaware has invited twelve STC girls to a "playday" which will take place on April 30. The volunteers are: Mozelle Pardew, Sally Dawson, Ina Rae Calloway, Pat Morris, Barbara Mumford, Peggy Ross, Isabelle Brown, Anne Marousek, Pauline Porter, Louise Holbrook, Betty Lee Shawn, and Maria Simmons.

The events in which our girls will take part are: softball, volleyball, archery, tennis, swimming, badminton, square dancing, and other recreation games. Our girls are expected to make a good showing.

Twelve STC Girls to Compete in Play Day At U. of Delaware

Intramural basketball for girls started last week under the management of Charlotte Walsh. There are four teams which are competing for the championship. At the present time, the teams coached by Jo Ann Cathell, Ruth Neilson, and Helen Luzetsky are in the lead. The other team captain is Dolores Cooling. The play-offs are to be played in the near future and the winning team will receive small letters.

On April 30, twelve girls from this college will attend the University of Delaware Play Day. At this event, girls from various colleges will participate in the following sports: softball, volleyball, tennis, swimming, badminton, and archery. The following girls plan to make the trip: Mozelle Pardew, Sally Dawson, Pat Morris, Barbara Mumford, Peggy Ross, Isabelle Brown, Ann Marousek, Pauline Porter, Louise Holbrook, Betty Lee Shawn, Ina Ray Calloway, and Maria Simmons. They will be accompanied by Miss Whitney, the girls' coach and physical education instructor.

HIGHBAUGH FOUNDATION OFFERS 10 SCHOLARSHIPS

 far as I know these are the only scholarships available in a church-related college of law in the entire Southeast for the specific purpose of training potential Christian leaders in the legal profession.

"As I see it," Highbaugh said, "lawyers write the laws, lawyers interpret the laws, and lawyers enforce the laws. I wanted to help a college of law which is church-related because the more religion we can get into our laws, the better they will be."

Stetson's college of law is patterned after the British "inn" system where students and faculty live and study together.

"THE SILVER CORD"

Players to Present
"The Silver Cord" in Arena-Style Theater

On April 27 and 28, there will be a presentation by the Sophanes Players of an arena-style, three-act play, The Silver Cord, written by Sidney Howard. It was considered important for college people and was chosen by a majority of the members of the club. The cast is made up of two men and four women: David White, Mendel Heileg, Shirley Bowdle, Charlotte Ralph, Pat Morris, and Sally Dawson. Understudies are: Pat Gardner, Kathy Subers, Anne Gorman, Lee Levering, and Clinton Bradway.

In charge of the over-all production is Mr. MacCurdy Burnet, who is faculty advisor to the Players and also Production Director. Carl Rathgeber is assistant to the director.

This is the first effort of the club to do a three-act drama in arena-style theater. Earlier, as an experiment, the club presented a one-act arena-style play. For the coming production a special platform will be constructed for the actors; it will raise them about two feet above the floor. The platform is being constructed by Bob Davis and helpers.

Bill Tawes is in charge of lighting and Pat Gardner is in charge of the props. As yet the prompters have not been chosen.

Previously, the club had had no room they could call their own in which to hold rehearsals; but with the permission of Dr. Blackwell, they have now secured a room located below the dining room. This room has been named the "green room."

Plans are to present the play in the dining room of the school.

Medical College Exam
Scheduled for May 7

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from pre-medical advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 23 and October 17, respectively, for the May 7 and October 31 administrations.

SOVIET STUDENT EDITORS
TO VISIT U. S. CAMPUS

small private college of good standing. The Soviet student editors will be given opportunities to meet American students and to participate in discussions with them and with their professors.

Academic institutions to be visited by the Soviet editors have not yet been determined. A tentative itinerary includes stops in New York City, Washington, Detroit, Ann Arbor, Chicago, San Francisco, and Tuskegee, Ala. Other cities will be added to the schedule.

"We hope this trip will give the visitors a maximum understanding of U. S. student life," commented Arthur C. Nagle, Director of the Institute's Department of Special Programs, which has charge of arrangements for the tour. "It may also give them some understanding of American social and political institutions, the economics of the free enterprise system, labor-management relations, and our cultural and community life."

The editors will arrive in New York City April 15.

The Soviet student editors have been granted entry into the United States by the Departments of State and Justice "in the national interest." Under the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act it was necessary for the Secretary of State to recommend admission to the Department of Justice. The Attorney General granted the recommended waiver of the Act.

Last summer when the Soviet student editors first applied for permission to visit the United States, Soviet propaganda made much of the U. S. refusal to grant visas at that time. The visas were turned down because American universities were not then in session. The Soviets claimed that it was the United States that had the Iron Curtain, not the U.S.S.R. Last year Russia allowed a group of American student editors to visit there.

The visit of the student editors is at the expense of the Soviets. It is in no way a U. S. Government project.

Editorial comment in the nation's press has endorsed the projected visit of the Soviet student editors. A New York Times editorial stated, "If the Russian Government is willing to expose eleven student editors, aged 25 to 39, to a close-up of higher education in this country, it is wise of us to accept the challenge. William Randolph Hearst, editor-in-chief of the Hearst newspapers, has advocated the idea of admitting Russian students to the United States so that they may observe American life. Mr. Hearst, who has just returned from a trip to the Soviet Union, made this statement in recent speeches in Washington and Los Angeles.
